

Today Michael Voris once again attacked the SSPX, this time for the SSPX's strong reaction to the New Mass. But is Voris' outrage properly directed? Are Catholics actually bound to accept a Protestantized New Liturgy? And what about those who impose - and who to impose - this "banal on-the-spot fabrication" on the Catholic world. Contains quotations from men who rejoiced — at the time of the Council itself — that Vatican II's liturgical reform "destroy the uniformity of the Roman Rite
