Brian McCall speaks with Fr. Francesco Giordano, a theologian and professor in Rome, about Transhumanism. As discussed in prior Weekly News Roundups, one of the aspects of the Great Reset of the Globalist Elites is to transform human nature through technological enhancements of the human body. In this interview, Father Giordano explains how this movement of Transhumanism contradicts the Catholic teaching on creation and human nature. Father's classical education in Thomistic philosophy and theology clearly enables him to draw the important distinctions between true scientific progress and this evil rebellion against God.
