I believe one of the most important things for us to do at the beginning of this Leonine pontificate is to place ourselves in historical context. It was incredibly helpful to be able to stay in Rome with Dr. John Rao, one of the most prolific Catholic historians of our day, and interview him on the papal conclave. Below is a portion of that interview. For the full interview, access to our e-edition paper, the Father Fahey Conferences and much more you can visit https://catholicfamilynews.locals.com/
